音読用英文

The World of Sign Language

Sign language is made for people who have hearing difficulties. It conveys the words not by sound but by hand signs. Contrary to what some people believe, there is not just one sign language. There are over 100 different sign languages around the world, including Japanese Sign Language. The most widely used sign language is probably American Sign Language, which is used in the U.S., Canada, and some parts of Mexico. However, British people and Australians don't use it.
